

QUALITY POLICY OF THE FACULTY OF OENOLOGY

*Approved by the Faculty Board on 15 December 2009
Modified by the Faculty Board on 17 January 2020 and 1 April 2022
Ratified by the Faculty Board on 18 January 2024*

The Faculty of Oenology is a leading higher education centre that provides consolidated teaching and research in the fields of oenology and biotechnology. It particularly stands out for the quality of its teaching and research staff training, its knowledge application, and its collaborations with leading companies and institutions in the sector.

At the Faculty, we are aware of the importance of ensuring the quality of the service we offer to our students, staff and society. That is why the Faculty management have designed and implemented an Internal Quality Assurance System (IQAS).

Mission

The Faculty's mission is to create the teaching and research conditions to train highly qualified professionals, apply innovative criteria, act with efficiency and be fully engaged with our students and society as a whole.

Vision

The aspiration of the Faculty of Oenology is to become a leading educational centre that is both nationally and internationally recognized for its teaching, its research projects, its links with the productive and social system and its dissemination of research results in the fields of oenology and biotechnology.

Objectives

In line with the URV's quality assurance strategy, the Faculty of Oenology has established a series of objectives. Specifically, it aims to:

- Provide academic training that is recognized for its excellence and innovation, that incorporates research-generated knowledge and that is in line with the needs and expectations of our students and society in general.
- Promote a culture of continuous improvement in the way that the Faculty of Oenology is managed by implementing an internal quality assurance system that involves and is certified by all stakeholders.
- Strive for the permanent improvement of the Faculty's facilities and services and their adaptation to the training needs of the students.

- Promote the internationalization of the Faculty by ensuring that its undergraduate and master's degree programmes are attractive to international students and by promoting the mobility of students and staff.
- Provide students with academic and professional guidance through a tutorial action plan that offers comprehensive training and which increase their employability and likelihood of entering the job market.
- Promote the visibility of the Faculty, its relationship with students and graduates and its collaboration with the productive sector and trade associations in the field of oenology and biotechnology.
- Promote equality, include the gender perspective in its teaching and apply ethical principles, social responsibility and best practices in the Faculty's areas of action.

The management team of the Faculty of Oenology informs all of its members (students, teaching and research staff and administrative and services staff) about this Quality Policy and commits to providing the resources necessary to ensure compliance with the policy and with any subsequent revisions or any other documents that may derive from it.
